72 HOURS

AND PRIN

THE STORY

An actor pulled into a manufactured reality must solve a murder in 72 hours — before he is rewritten as the next lie.

WHO KILLED FRANCISCO?

FERNANDO

You already have.

HANDPRINT

A psychological thriller
where identity is manufactured.
Truth is controlled.

Precision over chaos.
Silence over noise.
Power doesn't need to shout.

Se7en x Nightcrawler x Black Mirror

FERNANDO

The Architect

Control is the only language he speaks.

THE TRUTH IS WATCHING

At the center: Alex.

- An actor chasing a truth he may already be inside of.

The deeper he goes,
the less he controls
what's real.

The movie is watching him back.

THE ARENA

A Hollywood soundstage.

A film production built on control.

Everyone is playing a role.

No one knows who still has the script.

THE ENGINE

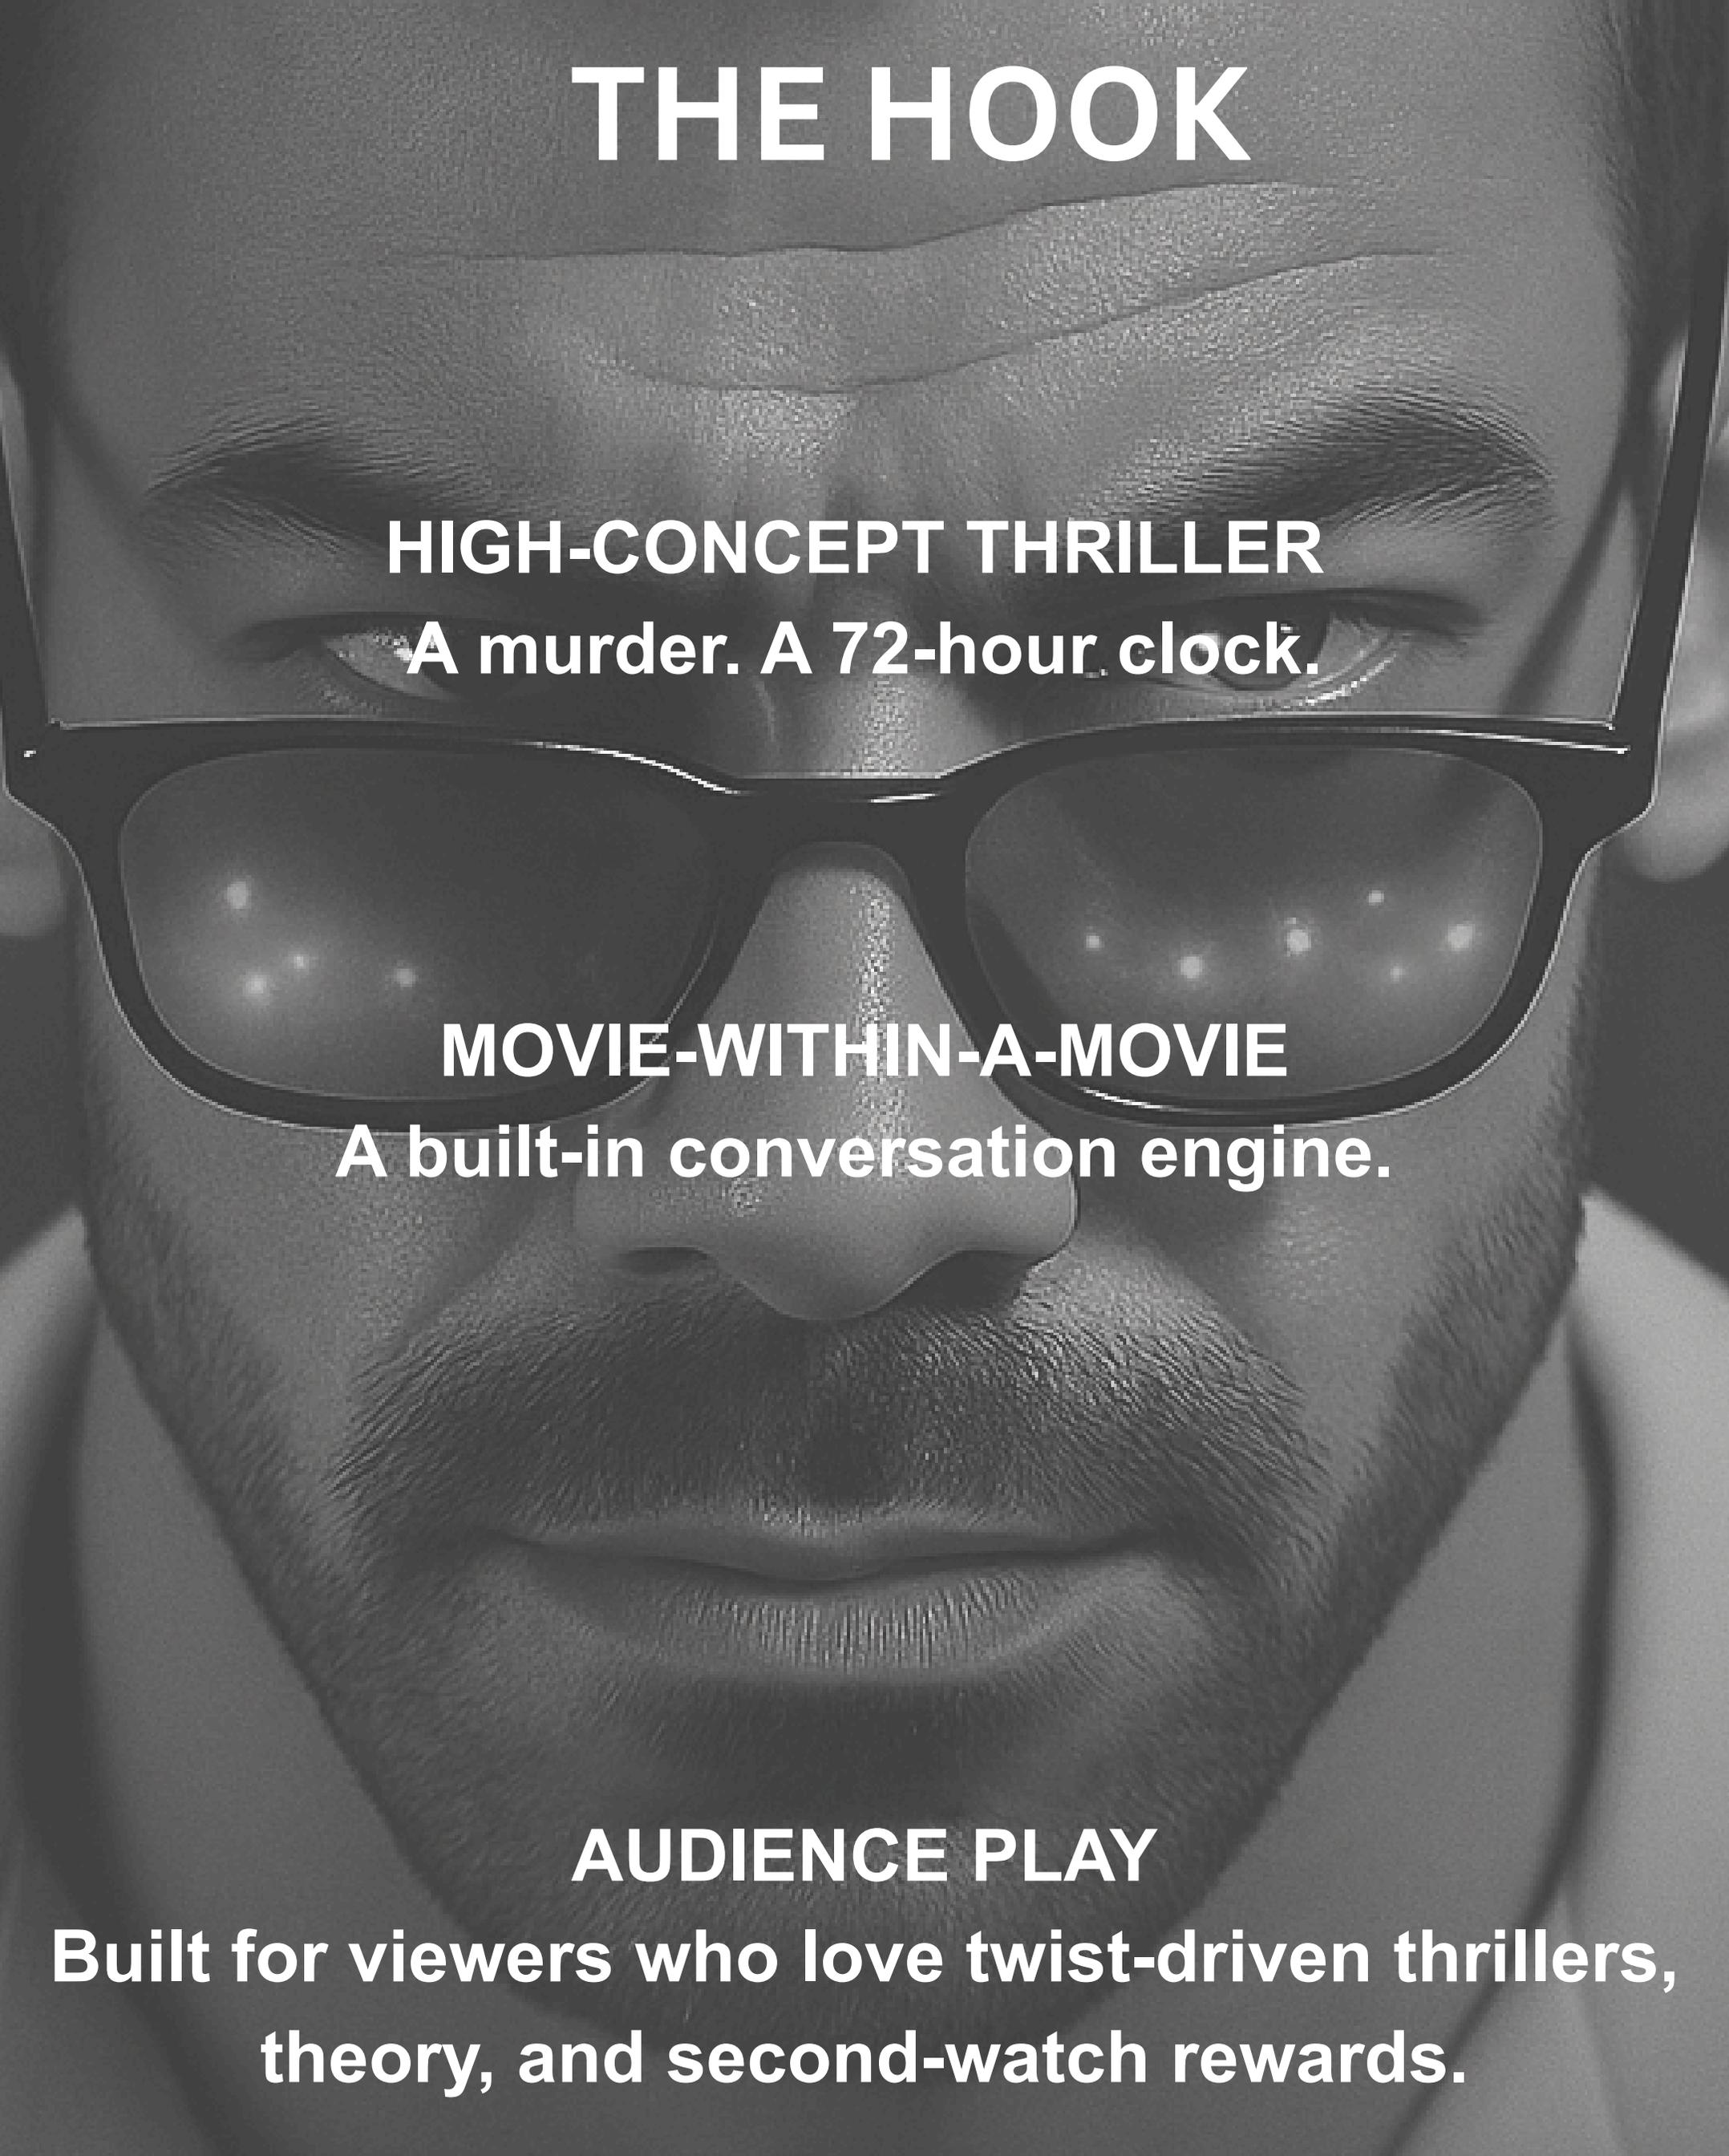

A man with a beard and glasses is looking through a cracked smartphone screen. The screen is shattered, with a prominent crack running vertically down the center. A glowing yellow fingerprint is visible on the screen, positioned below the man's chin. The background behind the screen is dark and textured, possibly a wall or a surface with a pattern of concentric circles.

Fernando controls the movie.

A murder breaks the system.

Now Alex has 72 hours.

Uncover what happened to Francisco before the story turns on him.

THE HOOK

HIGH-CONCEPT THRILLER

A murder. A 72-hour clock.

MOVIE-WITHIN-A-MOVIE

A built-in conversation engine.

AUDIENCE PLAY

Built for viewers who love twist-driven thrillers, theory, and second-watch rewards.
